NOTES:

Nicholas of Humeto and Julian Chesneduit were witnesses to a charter of Abbot William de Humez (1214-22) – WD fo.629. ‘Hulian Cheendut, then seneschal of Westminster’ also witnessed a grant from Robert de Cleygate of land in Morden c.1217-21 – WD fo.170/170b (qv).

A Master Nicholas de Farnham was Bishop of Durham 1241-49. He had studied in Paris in 1229, and went on to Bologna to complete his studies in theology. Back in England he was appointed royal physician, and served Henry III in this and in other ways. He died in 1257. (E Robo Medieval Farnham (1935) pp62-3, quoting Matthew Paris)

This suggests that the appointment of Thomas de Senesfeld was in the latter part of Peter de Roches’ episcopacy at Winchester.
