King's College London,
Waterloo

London Archaeologist is holding its first ever conference this year – to celebrate 50 years of archaeology in London.

Tickets will go on sale to LA members in July, and to the public in August.

The programme will feature speakers including Peter Marsden and Harvey Sheldon, and topics covering five decades of mould-breaking change, innovation, people and places.

And we'll finish with a big party...

Full details in London Archaeologist magazine in July and online at www.londonarchaeologist.org.uk.
