Still of the Court

Penalty placed	[blank] with pertinents in Morden aforesaid, died after the last court held here, whereby a certain William Plaistowe junior is son and heir of the aforesaid William Plaistowe senior, the which William Plaistowe junior at this court defaulted to do his fealty and suit and also to pay his relief to the lord of this manor. And nothing for mercy because by reliable witnesses [ex fidedigno testimonio] here in court it is witnessed that the aforesaid William Plaistowe junior now is suffering from a serious disease [ex gravi morbo laborat]. Therefore he has a day given to him to be at the next court held here to do his fealty and suit of court under penalty 3s 4d.

Default in appearing at court

They say upon their oath that John Heringman ^{4d} and Robert Knepe ^{12d} are free tenants of the manor and Richard Worde ^{4d} is a customary tenant of this manor and they owe suit at this court and have defaulted at this day. Therefore they are severally in mercy just as appears over their names.
